Blind Staggers in Horses.

A correspondent in the Kingston East Tennessee writes as follows: "I have understood that a number of horses have recently died in the neighborhood of Knoxville, with a peculiar disease; and somewhat similar to blind staggers. Several horses have also recently died in this county. Having had some experience in the treatment of the disease, I thought I would ask sufficient space in your paper to tell it, so that those having horses affected might profit by it. If the remedy does not cure, it will do no harm."

"A few years ago I lost three or four horses with the disease referred to. I tried every remedy I could hear of. Not long afterwards another horse being affected, I concluded I would try a remedy I had often used successfully with hogs, &c., followed. With a sharp knife I split the skin on the fore head, to the bone, making an incision of about three inches in length, immediately between the eyes, then pressing into the wound as much salt as I well could get in. In twenty-four hours the horse was well. I have never had a case since, but would ever resort to the above remedy. It is simple and effectual."

Value of Sweet Potato Fodder.

A Correspondent of the Farmer and Artisan, writing from Barrenville, S. C., says: "In our ordinary plantation system, the supply of long forage for stock is generally made a secondary consideration, and consequently is never abundant. In the middle and lower counties of the State, where sweet potato is largely planted, an addition of considerable value may be made to the fodder left with but little trouble. I have long been in the habit of going into my potatoes before frost—say about the 30th of October—pulling by all means to our Factory, and return the goods promptly. In Circuit Court at Winchester.

J. P. Justin vs Valentine Dehn and Catharine Dehn.

On motion of plaintiff, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that on the 10th day of November, 1863, a Judgment was rendered by G. W. Bowling, a Justice of the Peace for the county of Franklin, and State of Tennessee, in favor of plaintiff, J. P. Justin, and against Valentine Dehn, for the sum of forty-nine dollars and ninety-three cents, debt, and eight dollars and two cents cost of suit; on said Judgment an execution was issued by said G. W. Bowling, J. P., against said Valentine Dehn, Plaintiff, and Catharine Dehn, Mayor of Franklin, on the 13th day of October, 1870, and levied on a tract of land belonging to said Catharine Dehn, lying in Franklin County, Tenn., civil district No. 5, containing 317 acres. Said Judgment and execution returned to the Jury Term, 1863, of the Circuit Court of said county for condemnation.

It is further appearing to the Court that since the rendition of said Judgment, and issuance and levy of said execution, Catharine Dehn, one of the defendants, has departed this life, leaving John Dehn, Joseph Dehn, Harry Dehn, Philomena Dehn, and Louis Dehn, heirs at law of said Catharine, all of whom are non-residents of the State of Tennessee.

It is therefore ordered that publication be made in the Home Journal, a newspaper published in the town of Winchester, Tenn., for four successive weeks, commanding the aforesaid non-resident heirs of Catharine Dehn, dec'd, to appear before our next Circuit Court, to be held for the county of Franklin, at the Courthouse in the town of Winchester, on the 4th Monday in March, 1871, to show cause why the aforesaid judgment should not be reversed against them, and satisfaction had of all the money above mentioned.

The remedy is in any one to try, and can do no harm.

The Somerville Falcon says: Mr. Ran. Tatton of the firm of J. J. Holloway & Co., of this place, is now the owner of a hog which is the largest animal of that species we have seen for many a day. It is six feet ten inches long, six feet six inches round, three feet three inches high, is twenty months old, and weighs six hundred and fifty pounds. The hog was raised by Mrs. Frank Maddox, of this place, and was sold by her for $70."

It has been discovered that wood ashes placed around the base of peach and apple trees, at the junction of the root and stem, will, in all cases, restore these trees to their original vigor, and a splendid crop of fruit will be the result.

The Home Journal, published in Winchester, Tennessee, to appear before the Clerk and Master of the bill which is sworn to, that defendant J. W. Gillespie, is a non-resident of the State of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him.
